THE CHRISTMAS SEASON.

At this annual festival season, which is peculiarly a time of manifesting affection and good will, no thoughts are more appropriate or more profitable than those which carry the heart beyoud the parrow circle of self, and permit it to entwine the tendrils of love, sympathy and liberality around our fellows.

Ciristmas is emphatically full of blessing in just the degree that we believe and act upon assurance of Him who said: "It is more blessed to give than to recieve." Just as home is where the heart is, so is a gift that which the heart makes it, whether the heart be that of the donor or the recipient. It need not be a thing of cost, nor even a thing of heauty, to make it a joy, temporarily it not forever.

Thousands of simple and inexpensive presents will pass between sympathetic hearts in a few days, and bear in their rain incelculable pleasure, while, on the other hand, many a costly gem and golden gift will utterly fail to bless either the giver or the receiver. Moreover, gifts, even Christmas gifts, are not necessarily material or tangible; for a word, a smile, a kindly act may prove, in many instances, the most ac-ceptable present, and become of itself the benison most craved and most welcome. Even the crumbs of comfort, which, in the absence of some more pretentious or costly gift, even the poorest of us may bestow upon some saddened neighbor, may come in for recognition from Him who said: "Icasmuch as ye have done it unto oneof the least of

THIRTY-TWO AS RIVALS. Mrs. Robert J. Patterson, of Brooklyn Saturday obtained a divorce from her husband. He, according to her allegations, has made love to 32 women since they were married. Among them are her own two sisters and his mother-in-

Mrs. Patterson was, before her mar riage, Miss Kate Holden. Directly after her wedding, she asserted in Court, the bridegroom began to make love to the bridesmaids and maid of honor. Mrs. Patterson tol 1 the Court that she bore this for a time, but when he began to pour love tales into the ears of her own sisters she thought matters had gone far enough. But the worst was yet to come. As Mrs. Patterson's story goes, her hus-band's proposal of matrimony to his mother-in-law was unique. "Fly with me" he is quoted as saying: "we will be happy together. I love you better than your daughter, and realize now that I have made a mistake." Much as Mrs. Holden may have been flattered she went straight to her daughter and told her of his conduct. When the wife complained she says ter husband threatened to shoot her. Mrs. Patterson told how her husband at one time woord three unsuspecting maidens in the same block.

When they found that he was already married they all swooped down upon and assailed the poor wife for keeping the man they loved to hereelf.

Seventeen courtships at once was his record, according to the accusations of his wife. He would come home at night and would actually boast to his wife that a dozen girls had accepted
